

Biography

John Allcock is Raytheon Australia's Group General Manager for Integrated Solutions. Based in Sydney, John manages a wide-ranging team, including engineers in Henderson and North Ryde.

Prior to this appointment, he was the General Manager, Major Projects.

John has also performed the role of General Manager Air Warfare Destroyer, General Manager Systems Group, Project Director for the Collins Replacement Combat System project and as the Commercial Director, with responsibility for development and negotiation of all Raytheon Australia contracts and subcontracts.

Previously, John was employed with GEC Marconi from 1999 to 2000 in the position of Project Manager and prior to that with Rockwell Australia as the Commercial Manager from 1989 through 1998. Raytheon recruited John in April 2000 to support the growing Raytheon business pursuits in Australia.

John is a native of England who emigrated with his family to Australia in 1968.

John is a graduate of the University of New South Wales