

Biography

Matthew Cossey is the Executive Director of Government Affairs for Raytheon Australia.

Matthew leads Raytheon's government relations strategy, provides strategic advice to Raytheon Australia's Managing Director and is a member of Raytheon's Executive Leadership Team.

Matthew joined Raytheon in December 2008 and prior to that was the ACT Secretary and Campaign Director for the Australian Labor Party, a position he held for more than six years.

He was Senior Defence Adviser to the then Shadow Minister for Defence, The Hon Dr Stephen Martin MP, from 1998 to 2002 and before that worked as political adviser to a Federal Senator.

Matthew worked in several positions in the commonwealth public service in both Canberra and Sydney before taking up his positions at Parliament House.

Matthew is a native of Australia and holds a Bachelors of Arts / Law. He undertook his tertiary studies in Canberra and Sydney.

Matthew also serves as a Director on the Boards of the CLC Group and AFL Canberra.