

Biography

Paul Haseman is the Director of Legal Affairs for Raytheon Australia and serves as the Company Secretary.

Paul has been a Raytheon Company employee for over 25 years, and prior to assuming this position with Raytheon Australia, Paul served as Senior Counsel for Intelligence and Information Systems (IIS) and for the Raytheon Homeland Security Unit.

Prior to IIS, Paul supported Raytheon Technical Services Company as Senior Counsel working on the entire range of business issues, including international law and transactions.

Paul's legal expertise is in International Law and Transaction Law. In America he was active with the American Bar Association. He served as a Council Member of the ABA Public Contract Law Section and Co-Chaired the Section's Committees on International Law and Homeland Security.

Paul is a graduate of the United States Military Academy, served as an officer in Vietnam and is now a retired US Army Lieutenant Colonel.

Paul holds law degrees from the University of Virginia (Juris Doctorate) and George Washington University (LLM).