

Biography

Charlie is the Director of Human Resources for Raytheon Australia. In this role he is responsible for the Human Resources function for the organisation – including recruitment, learning, compensation and benefits, workforce planning and career development.

Charlie previously held the position of Senior Human Resources Manager for Raytheon in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia providing support to the Patriot and Hawk missile programs.

Prior to joining Raytheon, Charlie worked as Director of Human Resources at Lear Corporation.

Charlie spent a total of twelve years with Lear Corporation in a variety of domestic and international assignments.

During this time he held responsibility for Human Resource Activities in Europe and Asia for Lear's automotive interior business.

Charlie holds a bachelors degree from Michigan State University and a Masters Degree in Industrial Relations from Wayne State university.